Managed Security Services and Security Operations

protiviti®
Global Business Consulting

As more organizations continue to modernize their environments, they consistently face short timeframes to respond to potential vulnerabilities and advanced cyber threats, changing business needs, and leadership's call for increased visibility, actionable metrics, and unified programs.

Optimize your business sustainably

The attack landscape is always changing. The sheer number of products and services an organization needs to maintain in order to have a successful security program is daunting and often difficult. Many organizations today find that they need the support of a managed security services team to provide innovative, highly flexible security solutions. Protiviti is ideally suited to address the cybersecurity challenges of today's market. Our experts enable organizations to tackle the following challenges with confidence:

- Embedding risk and compliance controls into everyday security operations to facilitate mitigation of risk and respond more effectively to dynamic business process changes.
- Optimizing compliance activities to successfully achieve business strategies and objectives.
- Managing complexity, rapid deployment, and gaining access to deeply skilled resources, delivered in a scalable, predictable way.

Protiviti's managed security services will help improve your security operation efficacies, reduce complexity, and streamline operations so you can manage risk and better protect your organization.
